

Great Family Camping Starts with the Right Tent

Camping with your family is one of the best ways to share special experiences, enjoy nature at it's finest, and visit new and exciting places. In fact, many feel that camping is the ultimate American vacation. But to have a successful camping vacation, you need the right equipment for your family, and having the right tent may be the most important piece of equipment. Two great choices for family camping that you may want to consider are the Eureka Headquarters Tent and the Columbia Cougar Flats II.

There is probably nothing that can spoil a camping vacation quicker than a rainstorm that soaks your tent and everything in it, or sweltering on a hot summer night in a tent that has no ventilation. One of the great things about the Eureka Headquarters Tent is that it is designed to handle both of these very common situations quite well.

The Eureka Headquarters Tent has two doors that each have their own windows, and two additional large windows, so there is a lot of air moving in here, which makes it very nice if you are summer campers. And if it rains? You will be dry, because Eureka has it's "Stormshield" which adds to the tents resistance to rain and increases it's durability...plus there is a heavy-duty "bathtub floor" which does a very nice job of repelling water.

Now what if your family or group needs a large tent to fit everyone? Then take a look at the Columbia Cougar Flats II.

Anyone who has camped, especially with kids, knows that trying to cram everyone, and everyone's gear, into a little tent can be challenging. By the time you get the sleeping bags, air mattresses, clothing, supplies, and anything else that is deemed "necessary" into the tent, there is often no room left for the people. This is what makes the Columbia Cougar Flats II so perfect for family camping. While there are a number of things to like about the Columbia Cougar Flats II, the size is definitely one of the highlights. The 10 ft. by 15 ft. size allows you to have plenty of room to spread out, and you can even have two nice sized "rooms": parents can be on one side, and kids on the other, or maybe have everyone sleep on one side and use the other for a "living" area. This tent can sleep up to 8, making it a good choice for anyone camping with a large family or group.

Camping can create warm and wonderful family memories like no other vacation. Choosing the right tent for your family will insure that your vacation is remembered for good experiences, and not miserable ones. The Eureka Headquarters Tent and the Columbia Cougar Flats II both are super choices for a great tent and a great family camping vacation.
